

Alicia Márquez

Ramón Martínez

Flamenco Dance Workshop 21-29 Mar 2026

Alicia Márquez began studying flamenco in Seville at the age of 10 with Matilde Coral as her mentor. Her professional career starting with Ballet de Andalucía directed by Mario Maya, followed by collaborations with various artists including Joaquín Grilo, Fernando Romero and Isabel Bayón over the years in different shows and flamenco festivals. Alicia also took parts in the film "Flamenco" and "Sevillanas" by Carlos Saura, and "Blood Wedding" by Antonio Gades. In 1994, Alicia found her own company and dance school in Seville, where she continues to teach and promote the Sevillian dance style. Her teaching experience includes two years as head of flamenco training at the Spanish National Ballet.

As co-director and teacher of Estudio de Baile Alicia Márquez, Ramón Martínez began his flamenco training in Málaga. He joined in the Andalusian Dance Company in 1993 and participated in numerous shows by leading figures such as María Pagés, Javier Latorre, Manolo Marín, José Antonio, Javier Barón, Eva Yerbabuena and Cristina Hoyos. From 2003 onwards, Ramón performed alongside Alicia Márquez and created his own shows that received critical acclaims.
